Mahene's Ratification Speech—William Walter Phelps Tells a Little Story—The New York Situation.

[From Our Regular Correspondent.]

Washington, June 20.—Virginians are amused at the idea of General Mahone's promise last night in his speech that Virginians are my old comrades in arms. He had thought fen days ago that the bill would pass with a two-thirds majority. Now he doubted whether it would pass except loaded down with ruinous provisions. The Republicans proposing to amend the bill had professed to be its friends. "God save my old comrades in arms," said he, my old comrades in arms," said he, my old comrades in arms," said he, We had all come together now to advance measures upon their merits.
